President and CEO of Synch-Solutions Honored as One of the Chicago Defender's 2011 Men of Excellence

CHICAGO, January 27, 2011 -- John D. Sterling, the President and CEO of Synch-Solutions, was honored today by the Chicago Defender newspaper at its 2011 Men of Excellence reception. Mr. Sterling was one of 50 Chicagoans selected this year by the Defender as "a member of a very special class of men who are recognized for the excellence they demonstrate daily in their professional and personal lives."

Under the guidance of Mr. Sterling, Synch-Solutions has grown into a nationally recognized Information Technology services firm. But in addition to his business success, it is Mr. Sterling's contributions to his community that designate him as a Man of Excellence. He serves as board member of Uhlich Children's Advantage Network (UCAN) and The Chicago Urban League. He is also a member of the Alliance of Business Leaders & Entrepreneurs (ABLE), Black Data Processing Associates (BDPA), Chicago Chamber of Commerce, Chicago United, CEOs for Cities, and National Forum for Black Public Administrators (NFBPA).

"I am proud to be recognized in this way by the Chicago Defender," said Mr. Sterling. "Being named a Man of Excellence places me in the company of some extraordinary community leaders, and I am truly honored to be considered as their peer."
